

Substantia
An International Journal of the History of Chemistry

Call for members of the Scientific Committee of Substantia
(starting from July 1, 2022)

Substantia is seeking to appoint members of its Scientific Committee for the period July 2022 – July 2027.

We welcome applicants from all areas of Chemistry (including history and philosophy) and of close disciplines (Mathematics, Physics, Earth and Life Sciences).

The applicant is expected to have an extensive knowledge of the relevant literature in his/her field, a good publishing record and reviewing expertise.

Additional qualifying features are:

- experience as a member of the Editorial/Advisory Board of a scientific journal;
- a stimulating vision regarding the placement and development of Substantia;
- ability to work in a team.

Profile of the journal

Substantia is an open access peer-reviewed international journal, owned by the Department of Chemistry "Hugo Schiff" of the University of Florence, dedicated to traditional perspectives as well as innovative and synergetic implications in all fields of Chemistry, from current research to historical studies. It is meant to be a crucible for discussions on science, on making science and its outcomes.

Substantia also welcomes contributions dealing with other experimental or theoretical scientific disciplines, and other horizons of human culture, including society, education, ethics, etc.

For more detailed information please refer to the journal's website:
